THE PATRIOT READINESS CHECKLIST

*Ten areas. One month.
Start where you are weakest.*

Supplies run out. The people beside you do not.

How to use this

Do not start at the top and work down. Start with whatever you scored lowest on in the Readiness Check, because that is where a bad week will find you first. One area a week is a real pace. Ten weeks from now you will be in better shape than most of the country.

Three rules that matter more than any item on this list:

- 1. Tested beats stored. A filter still in its packaging, a generator that has never been started, a radio nobody has paired — none of those count. If you have not used it, you do not own it yet.
- 2. Boring beats clever. Water, food, cash, a written plan. The unglamorous four carry more weight than any piece of kit you can buy.
- 3. People beat supplies. You can stockpile every item in this document and still be alone at three in the morning. Area 09 is the one that cannot be bought — treat it as seriously as the food.

Print this. Put it somewhere you will see it. Tick the boxes with a pen.

The ten areas

AREA 01

WATER

Three days without it and nothing else on this list matters. This is the cheapest area to fix and the most common one left undone.

- ☐ One gallon per person per day, stored — target fourteen days
- ☐ A filter you have actually used at least once
- ☐ Purification tablets or unscented bleach as a backup
- ☐ Know where your main shut-off valve is (trapped water is drinkable water)
- ☐ Fill every tub and container at the first warning, not the first outage

AREA 02

FOOD

Aim for thirty days of food your household already eats. Buckets of things nobody will touch are not a food supply — they are an expensive decoration.

- ☐ Thirty days of shelf-stable food you genuinely eat
- ☐ Two manual can openers (the first one always breaks)
- ☐ Dates written on every box in marker; rotate oldest first
- ☐ A way to cook with no grid — propane, wood, or solar
- ☐ Salt, sugar, coffee, spices: morale is a supply too

POWER

Seventy-two hours is the realistic planning window for weather. Cover light, charging, and heat in that order.

- ☐ A torch and spare batteries in every occupied room
- ☐ Power bank charged — check it the first of every month
- ☐ Generator with stabilised fuel, or a solar setup you have tested
- ☐ Off-grid heat, and a working carbon monoxide alarm with it
- ☐ Know what is in your freezer and what you would cook first

AREA 04

COMMS

When the towers go quiet, your phone becomes a torch with a screen. Everything here must exist on paper, because you will not be able to look it up.

- ☐ A printed contact list — not a screenshot on the phone that is dead
- ☐ One out-of-area contact everyone in the family calls to relay messages
- ☐ Meeting point A (near) and meeting point B (further out), agreed out loud
- ☐ GMRS or FRS radios, charged, paired, and range-tested from your house
- ☐ Run one drill. A conversation is not a drill.

AREA 05

MEDICAL

The gap here is almost never equipment. It is training. A tourniquet in a drawer has never saved anyone.

- ☐ Trauma kit: tourniquet, pressure gauze, chest seal, shears
- ☐ Actual training on all four — a half-day course is enough to start
- ☐ Thirty days of every prescription in the household
- ☐ Paper copies of prescriptions and dosages
- ☐ The dull stuff: painkillers, antihistamines, kids' doses, pet meds

AREA 06

CASH

Card systems fail more often than the grid does. Cash is the difference between buying fuel and watching someone else buy it.

- ☐ Two weeks of household expenses, at home, in cash
- ☐ Small notes — nobody is making change in an emergency
- ☐ Split it between two or three places, not one envelope
- ☐ Something outside the banking system that holds value

AREA 07

PAPERS

The people who lose the most in a fire or a flood are rarely the least prepared. They are the ones who could not prove what they owned.

- ☐ One grab folder: IDs, birth certificates, deeds, titles, insurance
- ☐ An encrypted copy stored somewhere that is not your house
- ☐ Photos or video of every room, for the insurance claim you hope not to file
- ☐ Written serial numbers for anything valuable

HOME

Most of the value here costs under a hundred dollars and takes an afternoon. Hardening comes before anything else.

- ☐ Solid-core exterior doors; three-inch screws through every strike plate
- ☐ Motion lighting on all approaches
- ☐ A response plan every adult in the house knows
- ☐ Whatever you keep for defence: trained on it, practised with it, secured from children

AREA 09

NETWORK — the one you cannot buy

Every other area on this list is something you can purchase this weekend. This one takes time, and it is the single biggest predictor of how a bad month actually goes. Most people score zero here and never notice until it counts.

- ☐ Name three patriots in your own county — actual names
- ☐ Their numbers, on paper, in the grab folder
- ☐ Agree who checks on whom, and in what order
- ☐ Join your state's room and introduce yourself this week

PLAN

One page. Everyone has read it. That is the whole standard — and almost nobody clears it.

- ☐ One page: where we meet, who we call, what we grab, who gets the kids
- ☐ Every adult has read it; every child knows the meeting point
- ☐ Walk it through once, out loud, start to finish
- ☐ Review it every six months — readiness rots quietly

Your first thirty days

If the full list feels like a lot, ignore it and do exactly this instead. Four weeks, four jobs. It puts you ahead of nearly everyone.

- ☐ Week 1 — Water. Buy the containers, fill them, test the filter once.
- ☐ Week 2 — Paper. Contact list printed, meeting points agreed, grab folder built.
- ☐ Week 3 — Cash and food. Two weeks of cash in small notes; two weeks of food you eat.
- ☐ Week 4 — People. Get three names and three numbers from your own county.

Then re-take the Readiness Check at thepatriotpartynews.com/readiness.html and watch the number move.

The last one is the hard one

You can finish nine of these ten areas with a credit card and a free weekend. Area 09 is different. You cannot order a neighbour who will answer at three in the morning, and you cannot build that network in the week you need it.

That is the whole reason Patriotchute exists. All fifty states have a room. The patriots in your county are already talking in yours — about local news, local problems, and who is actually reliable. Live voice every day, Coffee with Chas at 9AM CT, Patriot Drive Time weekdays at 3PM CT.

Thirty days free. Walk away any time. Most do not.
